First Job Of Its Kind Here

Howard monoplane equipped with floats took off from the waters of Patricia Bay last week to undergo air tests after a major modification. The machine was the first Howard five-seater to leave here on floats. Earlier in the summer it had arrived at Patricia Bay Airport on wheels.

The modification was carried out by Pacific Western Airlines on behalf of the owner.

Two such modifications had been undertaken in the United States. Work included removal of the standard undercarriage and mounting of a suitable pair of floats. In addition, a set of fins have been mounted on the tailplane to afford greater stability and a door has been cut in the port side of the cabin. Formerly only one door was provided, but when landing on water the pilot must have ready means of egress in order to move the machine before it can drift away from the wharf or pier.

TEST FLIGHT

Testing the machine was the operator's own pilot, while the company's chief engineer, Hugh Thomas, accompanied him on the test.

The finished machine is somewhat similar to a Beaver, employing the same engine, but its performance is lower than that of the Beaver. In addition, the Howard is finished with fabric, while the Beaver is metal-covered.

Howard was built in the United States for the U.S. Navy and was a popular machine a decade ago.

WATER IS NECESSITY HERE, SAYS WARREN

Central Saanich Water Committee To Be Augmented by N. Saanich Names

Central Saanich council on Monday evening authorized the appointment of a representative of North Saanich to the municipal committee investigating the provision of a water supply to the district.

The authority was given when Councillor P. F. Warren submitted his report on the progress of the committee to the present time.

Councillor Warren observed that he had been appointed to the committee, with Councillor Harry Peard, following the petition received from about 100 residents seeking a water supply in the municipality.

There appear to be three ways of gaining water, said Councillor Warren: taking over the Brentwood Waterworks system and drawing from Elk Lake; possibility of large supplies of ground water and through the South Vancouver Island water commission.

Councillor Warren reported that he had enjoyed a conference with provincial water department engineers, but beyond valuable advice, he had been given the impression that the provincial government cannot be depended on to give any further aid.

In company with Councillor Peard, he had also attended upon Reeve Arthur Ash, of Saanich, and had found the reeve most co-operative. The reeve had expressed interest and was in favor of a project whereby water would be supplied over the municipal boundary and metered from that point. Reeve Ash had, however, emphasized that no action could be taken and no decision reached until his council had discussed the question.

Turning his attention northwards, Councillor Warren observed the need for water in North Saanich.

MOST ANXIOUS

"As you are aware," he said, "the residents of North Saanich, especially in the Madrona Drive, Towner Park and Deep Cove areas, are most anxious to have water. The airport and the experimental station also need large supplies daily."

Would the council be in favor of enlarging the present committee by inviting representatives from the North Saanich districts to look further into the matter with us? asked the chairman of the water committee. Water to the north would have to pass through Central Saanich.

WINDSOR IS RAPPED

Temperatures Rise as Foreshore Is Discussed

Final decision on the granting of a foreshore lease to Brenta Lodge brought the biggest flare-up in Central Saanich council for years. On Monday evening Reeve H. R. Brown spoke of his experience with Capt. D. H. McKay recently. Upon his conclusion Councillor J. B. Windsor stepped straight off into deep water.

"They are two separate matters," suggested Councillor Windsor, "the lease is not . . ."

"I am not in favor of giving anything unless he has a permit," interrupted the reeve.

"I'm sorry if you have a permit," commenced Councillor Windsor.

"I had no disagreement," said the reeve.

"If he had a disagreement," suggested Councillor Windsor.

"We had no disagreement," retorted the reeve heatedly. Councillor Windsor might submit to that sort of thing, he suggested, but he would not.

"I submit to nothing," snapped Councillor Windsor. There was a period of altercation. "I regret any unpleasantness," commenced Councillor Windsor again. "Your relations with Capt. McKay are no concern of mine."

"I have no relations with Capt. McKay," interjected the reeve.

"I'm not interested . . ." said Councillor Windsor.

"You have no right to take it that way," retorted the reeve, "I have no

Plan To Restrict Lot Sizes Is Received With Mixed Favor

—Farmers Question Value of Program

They Never Fight In Council

Chairman of Central Saanich Town Planning Commission, C. R. Leighton had his knuckles rapped on Monday evening by Reeve H. R. Brown.

Said Mr. Leighton: "We reached a decision after talking into the wee small hours and came to a fight again in the council chamber."

"We never fight at these meetings," countered the reeve.

Mr. Leighton withdrew his remark.

Showing every sign of becoming the most controversial issue ever to come into Central Saanich, the plan for restricted subdivision was introduced on Monday evening by the Capital Region Planning Board. Brahm Wiesman, planning director, explained to the municipal council that the plan calls for division of Central Saanich into five sections. Minimum lot sizes will be 20 acres, 10 acres, three acres, two acres and 0.4 acres.

The plan provided for the smallest sized lots, of 0.4 acres, in the Brentwood area. Mr. Wiesman explained that the provision of a smaller lot would lay the district open to the need for a sewer scheme in the area. Small lots, for commercial purposes would also be acceptable in Saanichton and Keating trading areas.

Bottom land, generally would only be divisible into 20-acre lots. Eminent suitable for farming, the land was not adaptable to residential purposes in many parts of the district, explained the planner, because of the danger of flooding.

Next unit would call for a minimum size of 10 acres. This would include the section of land adjacent to the summit of Mount Newton. It was felt that the reduction of lots to a size smaller than 10 acres would jeopardize the wooded nature of the properties.

Running in a panhandle northwards from Cordova Bay is a strip designated for three-acre lots. A strip of land running north and south throughout the length of the municipality is also listed as a three-acre section. This area is approximately centrally located, east-west.

TWO-ACRES

Areas chosen as more suitable for the erection of homes for commuters seeking a rural atmosphere have been set aside for two-acre divisions. These are located to the south-east of Brentwood, north-west of the South Saanich Indian Reserve and the waterfront north of Saanichton Bay.

Largest single group would be the three-acre properties, located mainly on sharply sloping land.

The program offered was intended to serve the municipality until such time as the population should reach the 5,000-mark, observed Mr. Wiesman. It would then be revised.

Speaking for the South Saanich Farmers' Institute, Capt. C. R. Wilson was critical of one aspect.

"There is great danger when a man is forced to buy more land than he can work," he warned. "The future of the district lies in intensified agriculture."

Capt. Wilson noted that by the nature of the soil Saanich is not an agricultural centre at all. It was only because the climatic conditions obtaining that the district was able to function successfully as a farming region.

The report was contradictory, said V. E. Virgin, also speaking for the Institute. While seeking to avoid the "sprawl system" it was following that form of development by the manner of controlling minimum lot sizes, he urged.

LOT OF ROT

This two-acre business is a lot of rot," said the outspoken farmer. The land would just be a mass of weeds, he warned.

"You cannot lay down that a man shall farm 20 acres . . . or else," said Mr. Virgin. "Two-acre lots can only be useful to week-end farmers, stated Mr. Virgin."

"Weak in the head," interjected R. C. Derrinberg.

"Which is weak, the week-end farmer or the full-time farmer?" asked Councillor R. M. Lamont.

"Both," retorted Mr. Derrinberg.

Also under close fire was the plan for two and a half lots per acre in Brentwood area. It was felt that the size was too large. If they are smaller, then a sewer system is essential, warned the planning authority.

Discussion was postponed and further debate will be in conjunction with the farmers' institute at a date to be settled later.

NEW DIRECTION FOR OLD-ESTABLISHED FIRM

Cement Plant Merger $17 Million Plan

A $17 million merger of two of the oldest companies in B.C. to serve the construction industry involves one manufacturing whose history has been closely linked to the past history of Central Saanich. B.C. Cement Co., Ltd. and Evans, Coleman and Gilley Bros. Ltd. have already discussed the preliminary problems of amalgamation and shareholders have been advised of the plans formulated in this direction by the directors of the two companies.

The B.C. Cement Company was established in 1904 by R. P. (Bob) Butchart. The sponsor of the project formed a company known as Vancouver Portland Cement Co., Ltd. Initial capacity of the new plant was 300 barrels a day. The plant was located at Tod Inlet, then a sparsely populated and almost unknown district.

In 1914, a decade later, H. G. K. Nambur, chief engineer for the Associated Portland Cement manufacturers, Ltd., of London, England, established a competitive project on Saanich Arm, opposite the Vancouver Cement Company's plant. The new site later added the name of Bamberton in token of the sponsor's name.

Early unit of the British concern had an output considerably beyond that of the rival, producing 500,000 barrels daily, or about five times as much.

The war years were not used during the first World War on the lavish scale that it served airfields, factories and emplacements during the latter war.

AMALGAMATION

With the end of the war and production at home back to normal, the two rival firms amalgamated to form the British Columbia Cement Co., Ltd. This merger came about in 1919.

The entire co-operation is today centred on Bamberton, with an output of 31 million barrels yearly. The total was reached when the fifth kiln at the plant went into operation recently. The plant employs 260 persons.

In addition to many Central Saanich residents who have found employment at the Bamberton plant, the company has contributed indirectly to the community by the gardens developed by the late Mrs. Butchart. These gardens, strictly a by-product of cement manufacture, have attracted attention from all parts of the continent and have been seen by residents of almost every country in the world.

New merger announced will not alter the operation of the plant. About 60 per cent of the capacity of the Bamberton works is already distributed by the member company of the Evans-Coleman group, Evans, Coleman and Johnson Brothers.

PEARD CALLS FOR WIDER CROSS ROAD

Widening of Keating Cross Road is sought by Councillor Harry Peard of Central Saanich. On Monday evening he pleaded with the Central Saanich council to approve a reconstruction project in view of the present time.

"We've talked about it for years," he commented, "it carries heavy traffic and with the school children using it next month it's dynamite!"

The council will enquire of the provincial department of highways of the costs involved. Half the cost will be met by the provincial government because Keating Cross Road is a secondary highway.

SMALL PLANE FORCED LANDS AT GOLF COURSE

A small dual control airplane made an emergency landing on the golf course on Salt Spring Island over the week-end.

Sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor, who moved to Southey Point about one year ago, were going to visit them and had flown here from Langley Prairie but found that the field they had previously spotted to land on, had been ploughed.

Not having enough fuel to return to Langley they attempted a landing on the golf course, but damaged a wheel strut and the propeller. The strut was repaired in Ganges but a propeller has to be procured in Seattle and will be available in about a week's time.

Resigns

R. M. LAMONT

Civil defence co-ordinator in the outlying districts for the past four years, Ray M. Lamont has announced his resignation from the position. Mr. Lamont assumed his duties during the early days of Central Saanich municipality. His duties necessitated his travelling throughout the lower island area, including Sooke and the area to the north, Salt Spring and other islands and Saanich Peninsula. He has been responsible for the inauguration and operation of the civil defence system in the Greater Saanich area. His successor has not yet been announced.

Mr. Lamont's resignation is effective, August 15. He will continue to take part in the civil defence organization within Central Saanich. Mr. Lamont also serves as Central Saanich councillor. He operates a farm at Island View and is a member of the staff of T.C.A. at Patricia Bay Airport.

SIDNEY COMMISSION COMMENTS

(BY COMMISSIONER MRS. V. COWAN)

VOTERS

Just a reminder that all new voters in the village must register at the village office during August. It is not now necessary to own village property to be eligible to vote in village elections—but you must live in the village and be age 21 or over.

NEW LIGHTS

There will soon be installed at the foot of Beacon Ave., two new street lights. These will have fluorescent luminaire lamps and are reported to be much superior to our present type. The installation of these two sample lamps is being done by the company that makes them, and will be given a testing here.

NO MORE PUBLIC WORKS THIS YEAR

A petition requesting work to be done this year was presented to the commission but had to be turned down. Improvements suggested were on First and Front Sts., and on Oakland and Bazan between these streets, with culverts installed to carry off excess water during the winter. This year the public works has already spent $12,528.27 on improvement of roads and sidewalks, and unless further work is done on a local improvement scheme, there is no further money allotted for this year. All such requests will be placed on the agenda for next year's works committee.

PLAYGROUND

Have you taken a look at the village playground lately? "Sandy", our maintenance man has been doing an excellent job. The equipment has been moved to the larger area to give more play space, and the swings, teeters and three new sandboxes have all been painted in bright, attractive colors. The fence has been repaired in places and painted white; the gate space, formerly opening over rough ground and rocks onto the corner of Fourth and Sidney Ave., has been closed up and two new gateways now open opposite each other across Sidney Ave. only. More improvements are planned, and though there seems to be a few adults with criticism, all the children seem happy.

Gunfight Followed By Story Of Lillian Roth And Alcohol

"The Fastest Gun Alive," coming to the Gem Theatre opening Thursday, is a suspense drama as unusual as its title. Starring Glenn Ford, Jeanne Crain and Broderick Crawford, with Russ Tamblyn and a big supporting cast, it is the story of a peace-loving man who finds his life suddenly filled with violence when he becomes known as "the fastest gun alive."

This is Jeanne Crain's greatest dramatic role as a young wife who discovers a frightening clue to her husband's past.

Glenn Ford plays her husband in this drama of character study in the early west.

One of today's most controversial books is brought to the Sidney screen on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next week in "I'll Cry Tomorrow."

This is the autobiography of Lillian Roth, read by millions in book form. Susan Hayward portrays Miss Roth, in a life drama, unfolding with terrifying realism and gripping intensity.

It is the story of a young girl who was deprived of a normal childhood by her ambitious mother (played by Jo Van Fleet) and who achieved stardom before she was 20. She endured years as an alcoholic, before she was able to overcome her malady and start a new life.

The four men who played a prominent part in her life are Richard Conte, Eddie Albert, Don Taylor and Ray Danton.

Winner of $10 prize last week was Miss Scott.

Modern Fishing Methods

New and modern fishing methods are constantly being found and applied in the B.C. fishing industry. This sleek salmon purse seiner, operating in the Strait of Juan de Fuca, is equipped with the recently invented "power block", seen at the end of the boom. Hydraulically operated, it hauls in the huge seine net, cutting down much of the heavy manual labor of the crew, and speeding up the operation.

MRS. WOODWARD SPEAKS FOR LARGE GROUP OF VISITORS OVER BORDER

The female population of Port Angeles, was temporarily increased last week when 275 members of the Women's Institutes of Vancouver Island South, were the guests of their U.S.A. counterpart, the Home-makers' Club of Clallam County, Washington.

Led from the ferry by Pipers Heather McWilliam and D. E. McLean, the visitors were greeted by a committee headed by Mrs. I. Fish and Mrs. Leo Doerge, president and secretary; and Miss Ruby Knudson, government agent. Again the pipes caused a stir as the group paraded to the beautiful new B.P.O.E. There's beauty even in fishing, as this "art" shot of salmon purse-seining shows. Here the crew of a seiner are engaged in "fleeting" the net after having made a set. The monthly meeting of the Saanich Conservative Association was held in the Brentwood Institute Hall and Hugh L. Henderson, president, was in the chair.

During the meeting the members expressed their concern over the lack of progress in the establishment of a fast ferry service between the mainland and the South Island. It was decided to send a message to this effect to the minister of transport, the Hon. Geo. Hees and to the Hon. G. R. Pearkes, and to A. D. McPhillips, M.P.-elect.

WEARY OF WELSH WORDS HE HIES HIMSELF TO HIGHLANDS TO BUCK BURNS' BROGUE

Staying in Elgin, Scotland, the home town of Dr. Robertson, McTavish Road, the roaming correspondent of this newspaper, who is revisiting his native land after 55 years, is appreciative of Scottish scenery.

The whole of Britain, he writes, takes the annual holiday for the last week of July and the first week of August and accommodation is tight.

The country on the west coast of Scotland is very similar to parts of Vancouver Island, mountains above the timber line, but no snow caps.

Leaving the Lake District in England to proceed north they passed through Carlisle to find the famed blacksmith shop at Gretna Green, where eloping couples have been wed for centuries. The shop sells postcards and refreshments. Everywhere you turn around, he reports, there is a castle.

"Before we could learn to speak Welsh," he comments, "we had to start learning to speak Scots."

They stayed in Dumfries to visit the burial place of Robbie Burns. He had to be born first, writes the correspondent, so they had to visit his birthplace at Ayr. They were obliged to find accommodation in a private home because all the hotels were full. It was better than a lot of hotels.

From Ayr to Inverness is a beautiful country, Loch Lomond, Loch Fine, Inverary, the home of the Duke of Argyll. They didn't stay with the Duke, he hastened to note, they merely saw the castle. This part of Scotland, he finds, is very similar to Kamloops or the Okanagan. The direct route from Ayr to Dalnally is only 15 miles. Via the coast road the journey took the travellers 100 miles.

At Loch Leven, the home of a famous trout it is nothing to pay £100 pounds ($280) for the privilege of fishing.

"We think we are achieving something when we construct pipelines in Canada," remarks the traveller. "A new power plant is rising at Inverness at a cost of $28 million. For miles the cables from the generating unit will be laid underground."

The laying will find work for hundreds of men.

Notable hill, "Rest and Be Thankful", has now been superseded, reports the writer. This hill was named centuries ago in token of the strain of surmounting it experienced by both drivers and horses.

In Oban they found a replica of the Coliseum at Rome built on a hill overlooking the town and harbor. It was erected during the depression by a wealthy landowner, who undertook the task to find employment for the local citizenry.

Scottish breakfast consists of kippers or finnan haddock at the various hotels. Calling on a Mr. Adam, formerly of Prince Albert, the writer met his host's B.C.

SIDNEY VISITOR

Miss Adam of Elgin, Scotland, is a visitor at present with Dr. and Mrs. Robertson, McTavish Road. The young lady is a qualified physiotherapist and hopes to settle on Vancouver Island. She resided in Montreal for some months before coming to this district.

While visiting at the home of Dr. Robertson's relatives, the writer

NARROW SAFETY MARGIN

LAST week daily newspapers across the continent carried reports of an American military plane which lost the use of two engines while flying over the Pacific and which reached a Honolulu base by the narrowest of margins.

The story was widely read and its development aroused both sympathy and interest. The machine lost an engine when it ran wild. The propeller was thrown off the engine and struck the adjacent motor, putting that one out of commission as well. For the next 1,000 miles the plane limped to its destination, short of fuel, short of altitude and very nearly short of hope. Its 57 passengers and its crewmen discarded baggage, equipment and other gear in order to reduce weight and make its target.

Associated Press report referred to its final landing after six hours of desperate flying, in the following terms: "as the plane lowered towards the runway, the pilot dropped his flaps and opened the bomb-bay-like cargo hatch doors under the tail section to get additional braking action for the short, 6,500-foot strip."

Those passengers were fortunate that they were landing on that short strip at Hilo, Hawaii. Had they been obliged to make that same emergency landing at Patricia Bay they might never have lived to tell the tale. A report might then have read something like this: "As the plane lowered towards the runway, the pilot dropped his flaps and opened the bomb-bay-like cargo hatch doors under the tail section to get additional braking action for the short, 5,000-foot strip. His efforts proved futile and the machine tore across the field to bury itself in the waters of Patricia Bay."

They were fortunate, indeed, that it did not occur here!

CONCERNING FARMERS

DURING the past week no less than two farmers of this district have spoken to The Review about the problems of agriculturists at present. Rightly or wrongly they maintained that the government of British Columbia isn't taking as keen an interest in the province's farm population as it should.

Our informants argued that Premier W. A. C. Bennett, although a very able government leader and minister of finance, didn't pretend to know the first thing about farming. The Premier at present holds the portfolio of agriculture. The Review does not suggest for one minute that Premier Bennett may not be a most talented, practical farmer. But our farm friends considered him to be a much better retail merchant than a farmer.

They pointed, too, to the attack by Recreation Minister E. C. Westwood of Nanaimo on "prairie farmers". Reference to Mr. Westwood's recent speech in this regard was made in this column last week. These gentlemen emphasized that Mr. Westwood was not attacking immigrants from Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. They felt that he was simply reflecting the government's disinterest in farmers as a group.

Our informants may be away off the mark. Or they may be right. We do not know. But the best answer would be for Premier Bennett to appoint a new minister of agriculture without delay and exhort him to assist British Columbia agriculturists in every way possible. Many Saanich farmers are impressed with the efforts put forth continuously on their behalf by John Tisdalle, Saanich M.L.A. His elevation to cabinet rank with the important portfolio of agriculture would be widely applauded.

FALL FAIRS LOOMING

THIS is the season of fall fairs. While some residents may feel that summer hasn't made much of a stay this year, nevertheless the calendar insists that autumn is just around the corner. And in various parts of this territory, busy committeemen are preparing to present annual exhibitions.

First on the roster is the annual fall fair of the Mayne Island Horticultural Society. Scheduled for the afternoon of Saturday, August 24, it is certain to attract its usual very large crowd. On Mayne Island were grown some of the first fruits and vegetables ever raised by white men in this area. The island has long been outstanding in the fields of horticulture, floriculture and agriculture generally. Those who attend Saturday's exhibition will not be disappointed, we are confident.

Next in line is the annual fall exhibition of Salt Spring Islanders, slated for Fulford Hall on Wednesday, Aug. 28. This outstanding show, whose roots go away back in British Columbia's history, is being rejuvenated this season after a few years of absence. The Islanders are proud of their produce, as well they may be. We sincerely hope that the 1957 show will prove such an outstanding success that it will never lapse again.

During the Labor Day week-end the annual show of North and South Saanich Agricultural Society will be presented at Saanichton. But its a long way away. The emphasis at present is on Mayne and Salt Spring Islands. They deserve capacity crowds and are certain to attract them if the weatherman will only co-operate.

TO REGATTA?
Editor, Review,
Referring to the suggestion of sending a group of Indians, with their war canoes, to take part in the Henley Regatta, they would all have to be amateurs as no professionals are allowed to take part. What I am getting at is it would be a shame to send a team with some of the members those who had at some time taken money as a prize in some other regatta.

I am a freeman of the watermen's company and none of our fraternity are allowed to take part in the Henley regatta because we get our living as watermen and are considered professionals. If a team of amateurs were sent I think it would prove a great success. Having been to Henley Regatta for quite a few times, I know without doubt, the publicity it would give to British Columbia in the English papers and among the thousands of visitors to the regatta.

To my mind the sending of the Indians would be a great success, even if they didn't take part in the races, but put on a display with a race among themselves. It is a fine course, almost straight and seldom rough. The Indians, being used to rough water, could make their canoes really hop.

Some years ago two persons gave a display with two larks. The boats were unknown in London at that time and thousands lined the wharves and bridges and special Thames River passenger steamers were hired to see them perform. Anybody who has visited London during Henley week without

Reflections From the Past

10 YEARS AGO
Measuring five feet in length, with a span of four feet, a skate created some interest on Tuesday morning at Roberts Bay, at the end of Third St. Mrs. H. Stacey first noticed the fish stranded by the extremely low tide. Mr. Stacey and the children dragged the fish to deep water and liberated it.

Herbert Sabiston, president of Victoria Kinsmen Club, spoke briefly at the Rotary dinner on Wednesday when he explained some of the work done by his organization in Victoria. Kinsmen Club is the only Canadian service club with an age limit of 40. One of the principles attending have missed a lot. From the highest to the lowest in the land, they throng the water and shore to watch the races. They are packed like sardines. Most of the craft are punts, propelled by poles and not by oars.

Yes, I think the idea is great. The Indians would give the English men and women the thrill of their lives. They are great fans at any regatta. It is certainly worth the approval of the centennial committee.

SOME SO PREFER IT

Editor, Review,
Sir:
The published census statistics of the Gulf Islands for the years 1951 and 1956 respectively provide another instance of the misleading nature of figures when not properly qualified.

In 1951 logging, on Salt Spring Island, was booming. A considerable number of transients were temporarily domiciled here, following the logging and allied occupations. Under such an onslaught merchantable timber, on a small island such as this, soon becomes exhausted. Today all the transients have gone as well as some of the island operators, following the retreating timber. All these have been replaced, and replaced by the more solid type of permanent resident. Thus the temporary increase of 1951 has become a permanent increase in 1956, plus the 1.7 per cent shown in the census figures.

The same thing probably applies, in some degree, to the other islands of the group but there the withdrawal of C.P.R. transportation service undoubtedly had a much greater effect. The published statistics point up strongly the need for a reasonably fast, dependable and regular transportation link with the mainland if the Gulf Islands are ever to realize their full potential.

On the other hand there are Gulf Islanders whose settled, deliberate philosophy of life does not include the fetish of feverishly chasing numerical expansion and so-called "progress"; who prefer the islands as they are now. Anachronistic? Perhaps; but such views should not be too lightly dismissed. The value of a calm retreat from today's tensions and excitement; a spot where the amenities of life have not been reduced to cash terms, can not be over-estimated. Indeed, the conjecture may be hazarded that this precisely (with their geography) is the charm of the Gulf Islands.

WARNING UNHEEDED

Editor, Review,
Sir:
With reference to the article in your last issue, under the heading, "It's Alarming", may I say that I am in perfect agreement with you. May I further point out that it is a warning which some of us have been sounding ever since the C.P.R. abandoned these islands.

The decline in population is partly due to the cessation of lumbering. There were many transients working in that industry here in 1951 who have since moved elsewhere. Since then the resident population of some of the islands, notably Galiano, has increased, though not in proportion to the rest of the province.

The article suggests that "the individual islands should mend their differences". The only difference, of which I am aware, is whether our future lies in a direct connection with the mainland or with Vancouver Island. True, at the moment we have both. However, the boat to the mainland does not carry cars and, though a welcome stop-gap, it is totally inadequate. I believe the time is not too far distant when we shall have a vessel built for the job. For the life of me I cannot see why there should be so much antagonism to this project. Nevertheless it exists and the sooner it is abandoned the better.

Not so long ago I have seen as many as 200 passengers get off at Galiano alone. This year summer visitors are at a 30-year low. Much of this is due to the strike which came at the height of the booking season. However, those days will return, given an adequate boat and a reliable permanent service to the mainland.

Even Salt Spring, with some 20-odd years of ferry service to Vancouver Island, only shows a population gain of 1.7 per cent. Ninety per cent of us come to these islands from Vancouver and points east and 90 per cent of those who follow us will come that way too.

principal objectives is to teach young men the responsibilities of community life and to prepare them and enable them to take an active part in the building of the community. The club celebrated its 25th anniversary last May. From a small beginning the club now numbers more than 7,000 members in Canada. Of the 30 clubs in B.C. with 1,200 members, the speaker pointed to their splendid record in such drives as the Milk for Britain Fund.

A party of about 45 school children, parents and friends awaited the arrival of the ferry, Cy Peck, last Wednesday at Galiano Island to attend the school sports at Ganges. As Galiano was the last port of call and Capt. Maude could only take 38 more passengers to complete his maximum load, some eight disappointed passengers were left on the Galiano wharf, to watch the ferry pull out. The day was saved by Miss Ethel Clarkson, skipper of "The Islander", who picked up the overflow and got them to Ganges in plenty of time for the sports.

Among the 112 recipients to whom invitations were extended to attend the Dominion Day investiture at Government House were Sgt. E. C. Reid of Saanichton, who received the British Empire Medal and Major P. W. Belson, Sidney, who was awarded the M.B.E. Capt. A. H. Stephenson, of Brentwood College, also received his M.B.E.

After a lull during the four years the annual Mayne Island Fall Fair will again be held this year, on August 20. Officers for the fair are as follows: president, C. Murrell; vice-president, W. Greene; secretary, Mrs. A. Horton; directors, Mrs. C. Jones, Mrs. W. Haglund, R. Aitken and Mrs. Foster.

20 YEARS AGO

A Sidney real estate man has now received instructions from the department of national defence, we understand, to proceed immediately in ascertaining the value of two sites for a proposed airbase. These proposed sites are of enormous size and rumor has it that when one or the other is chosen, there will be established here the largest air defence base west of Toronto where, it is stated, approximately $5,000,000 is being spent on the biggest undertaking of its kind ever attempted in Canada.

The Deep Cove Social Club will hold another dance in the club hall on Saturday, July 31, with a five-piece orchestra in attendance. Dancing will commence at 8.30 p.m. and continue until 12 o'clock. The club plans to have these dances every Saturday night and hope they will prove popular in the district.

St. Mark's Sunday school picnic was held recently in H. W. Bullock's grounds, Ganges, kindly lent by him for the occasion. After having been closed for some time St. Mary's Sunday school re-opened in April with Mrs. Guy Cunningham undertaking the teaching of the children assisted by Miss Ruth Goodrich. About 30 young people and several parents spent a most enjoyable time at the outing, the afternoon being given up to tennis, swimming in the lake, games and races. Mrs. Cunningham was in charge of the day's proceedings and the prizes were presented by Mrs. C. H. Popham.

Playing in Victoria last Friday the North Saanich high school girls' softball team defeated the Livewires, 28 to 6. The local players put up a good brand of ball, both in the field and at bat and showed considerable improvement over their last encounter.

"For God so loved the world..."
John 3:16.

Love is a great power! Man has attained great heights of fame because of love for humanity and his desire to aid others. This we can see from lives of people like Madame Currie, Florence Nightingale, Abraham Lincoln and others. At times love has moved people to risk and sometimes give their lives to save one they love from death. Yes, love is a power to reckon with.

In this verse we consider God's love. "God is Love" (John 4:8) and so is its source. His love is so great that He gave His greatest Gift to man who was in enmity with God. Yes, God loved the world—not the sin of the world, or man in that sin, but man as he could be—separate from sin through the blood of Christ. Loved that man enough to allow His Son to pay the supreme price just that you and I might have the great privilege of living with Him eternally.

This love is free to all, yet the verse says that only those who "believe" might have this everlasting life. "Oh taste and see that the Lord is good," said the Psalmist. Have you tasted?

Rain On Saanich Inlet

Now, at last, to walk in the woods in the rain. The Canadian woods, the westernmost forest of fir and hemlock, of yearning arbutus that leans to the bay and reaches tawny limbs and bright, wet leaves Out to the rain-pricked water lapping the sand Of Saanich Inlet beach;

To walk on still paths of balsam mold, Brown and springy to the step, clean walk-ways Where every leaf of trillium and cinquefoil, Sword fern and Oregon grape is washed clean And new, as if new-made, and set in designs Of endless loveliness;

To walk where roses reach through the fire, Reach for sun and air, and return to earth In festooned arcs; to walk with the reaching trees, The light-seeking vines; out to the bay Where the arbutus strains in grotesque desire For the coming and departing sea;

I, walking through these dreamed-of woods, Also reach, but reach to satisfy my five Senses only: the blessed touch of rain On skin, the homely sound of rain on leaf. The smell of earth, the glimpse of sea, and then The taste of salt on lips.

On Saturday afternoon an open tennis tournament and tea was staged at "Shore Acres". Mrs. Ramsay and Mrs. Prince were hostesses at the event. Miss Gertrude and Miss Margaret Cochran were winners. The tournament was in aid of the Sidney School Tennis Club to enable them to fix up their court and keep it in good condition.

Hungary. No doubt the reports were equally carefully attended beyond the Iron Curtain, but no indication survived the rebellion to indicate opinion in the east.

This is the story, not predominantly of the rebellion against tyranny, but of the circumstances which led up to it. It is the story of a period of war and a period of armed peace. It is the story of a warring world and a sullen, peaceful world, seething, but not boiling. It is the pointing of the finger.

Cretzianu explains much of what he decries in his introduction to the book. He writes of Hungary. He writes of the Balkans, although mainly he refers to his homeland of Roumania. The author was secretary-general of the Roumanian ministry of foreign affairs from 1939 to 1941 and minister to Turkey from 1943 to 1945. His pen leans towards his homeland, but his logic and his argument apply equally to all Europe.

The lost opportunity was the failure of the western armed forces to attack through the Balkans when Churchill urged such a move during the latter years of the recent war.

The writer sees recent outbreaks of revolt in the occupied countries as related instances of Russian in-

Nothing To Criticize

They Enjoyed Their Trip Abroad

After a four-month holiday in England, Scotland and the Continent, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Dawson, Land's End Road, travelled to Canada on the Empress of Scotland, a ship Mr. Dawson watched being built in 1929, christened the "Empress of Japan".

Mr. and Mrs. Dawson took the Canadian Pacific Railway pensioners' tour, travelling on the "Britisher" to the British Isles. It is 27 years since Mr. and Mrs. Dawson took their last trip to the Old Country and they were thrilled with what they saw. The children were in exceptionally good health, so straight and strong in appearance. The people are heavily taxed and unable to save a great deal, but they were happy and appeared to get so much enjoyment out of life. They are unable to buy a lot of the nice things Canadians purchase as they are mostly exported, but men's clothing was much less in price, i.e., the best of suits would cost approximately $40.

To Control Height Of Fences

—Five Feet Set

Modification to Central Saanich building-by-law will control height of fences permitted in residential areas. On Monday evening first reading was given to the new section which calls for a maximum height of five feet for any fence of boards and seven feet for a lattice fence.

The by-law amendment is accompanied by a current dispute between two residents of Stellys. In a letter to the council Ross Ingram, of Victoria, building a house on Stellys, explained that he had been explained by his neighbor, J. Chapman, who announced that he was obliged to erect a high fence since the new property was rising. This fence, explained Mr. Ross, would cut off his view entirely.

No action was taken by the council at this time.

Bon Voyage Party At Sidney Home

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hamilton Grundy held a family party at their home on Voyage St., Sidney, to wish bon voyage to Mr. and Mrs. C. Rob-Johns who are returning to England next week after a two-month stay on the island. They sail on the Saxonia, leaving Montreal on August 30.

Mrs. Rob-Johns was presented with a corsage of roses. A basket prettily decorated in pastel shades, with bon voyage in ribbons around it, was filled with gifts, mementoes of Canada. On top of the gifts was a lovely bouquet of roses and carnations. The basket from Mr. and Mrs. J. Hamilton Grundy, Mr. and Mrs. G. Bickford, Mr. and Mrs. S. Bickford, Mr. and Mrs. A. Bickford, Mr. and Mrs. H. Bickford, Mr. and Mrs. M. Bickford, Mr. and Mrs. R. Larsen, Mr. and Mrs. R. Bickford, Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt, David Johnson, Miss Barbara Michell, Sharon and Linda Bickford and Sharon Schmidt. A buffet supper was enjoyed after a very pleasant evening spent in games and singing.

HEAVY LIST OF VISITORS

More than 1,000 visitors attended the opening last week of Beacon Motors' new stand at the corner of Fifth and Beacon. During the course of the three-days' opening the highlight was doughnuts.

Mrs. Tom Flint recalls two small boys who ran in hourly for a doughnut. Finally, she reprimanded them and warned them they had had enough. "What time do you open tomorrow?" asked one youngster.

Another incident she recalled was when a little girl left a car in the ferry line-up. "Do you have hot dogs?" she asked. Upon receiving a negative answer, she asked for three doughnuts and returned to the ferry-bound car to eat them.

Sequel To Swartz Bay Accident

Sequel to the accident at Swartz Bay recently, when a B.C. Electric truck ran away, was heard in Sidney R.C.M.P. court at the week-end. Cecil James Stewardson, of Victoria, appeared before Magistrate F. J. Baker on a charge of leaving a motor vehicle unattended with the motor running. He was fined $10 and costs of $5.50.

Driving without due care and attention cost Christian Groum a fine of $25 and costs of $9.50. Albert Frederick Mountain, of Victoria, was fined $20 with costs of $5.50 for exceeding the 30 m.p.h. speed limit on Lochside Drive.

H.M.C.S. Labrador, R.C.N. Arctic patrol ship, investigates a 13½-million-ton iceberg aground off the Labrador coast. The iceberg is 600 yards long, 300 yards wide and over 100 feet high. A. E. Collins, senior scientist in the ship, has estimated that it displaces 2,000 times the weight of the Labrador and 160 times that of the liner Queen Elizabeth. It could supply each family in a city of 120,000

She is on her fourth annual voyage of exploration in the Far North and her third successive period in support of the seaborne supply of DEW Line sites in the Canadian Arctic.

THE GULF ISLANDS

MAVIS TAYLOR IS WED AT UNITED CHURCH AT ESQUIMALT, AUG. 10

Friends from the islands, Victoria, Sooke and Burnaby gathered in the Pender Island United church on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, Aug. 10, to hear Mavis, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Derwent Taylor, and Jubel, son of Mrs. M. Wickhem of Saseenos, repeat their wedding vows before the Rev. D. R. Pilkey of Esquimalt United church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a white lace ballerina style dress, with shoulder veil, and carried a bouquet of red roses. Her matron of honor was Mrs. Harry Hardie, of North Burnaby, gowned in turquoise nylon, and carrying carnations. The groom was supported by Wm. Stevenson, of Sooke. Ushering were Peter Taylor, brother of the bride, and Harry Hardie. Mrs. Ray Brackett played the wedding music.

The church, decorated in masses of summer flowers in pastel hues by Mesdames Wm. Morrison, Max Allan, Elmer Bowerman and Leslie Bowerman, was filled with long time friends and relatives of both families. Outside guests included Mrs. M. Wickhem, mother of the groom, Miss L. Wickhem, Mr. and Mrs. J. Peers, Ardiel Wickhem, Mrs. J. Llewellyn and Mary, and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stevenson, all of Sooke; Mr. and Mrs. Maywell Wickhem and Mr. and Mrs. J. Taylor, of Victoria; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hardie, and Miss J. Morris, of North Burnaby.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Tretoops, home of Miss Alice Auchterlonie and Mrs.

Myrtle Wilson, where low bowls of sweet pears and ribbon streamers decorated the bride's table. J. Garrod proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom ably responded.

For travelling the bride chose a navy wool suit, with white accessories. Following an extended motor trip through the interior and Alberta, Mr. and Mrs. Wickhem will make their home in Saseenos.

SATURNA

There was a very good attendance at Saturna Hall on Aug. 11, when Bishop Coleman from Saskatchewan very kindly came over and took the service. The five children of Mr. and Mrs. K. Sargeant were christened. Tea was served with a delicious cake made by Mrs. Sargeant.

Walter Warlow is a patient this week at the D.V.A. hospital, Victoria.

Mrs. Clarke, from Saskatchewan, spent the week-end with Mrs. T. Cowan.

Miss B. Money has returned from a week's visit with friends in Vancouver.

Three nephews from Vancouver were visitors with J. Liberto for the week-end.

Mrs. Shepherd and son, from Victoria, are spending a short holiday with their uncle, E. Gilbert.

AFRICAN CIVILIZATION

Colored University 1,000 Years Ago

By DORIS LEEDHAM JOHNS.

In a recent issue of "English-speaking World", the organ of the Commonwealth English-speaking Union, I read of one West African in London who was quietly celebrating his country's independence with a glass of beer and chatting to the waiter of the article, A. M. Taylor. The African was studying sanitary engineering in London. "I feel very happy, today," he said, "for so long people have regarded us as a lot of monkeys; now we will show them!" They talked of the color bar and the Englishman remarked: "You'll have hard work to find much color bar here in London now."

How little we all know of the vast civilization of "Africa." The Dark Continent is rich in history, tradition and skill. Now, with Ghana independent and Nigeria close on its independence too, West Africa is much in the public eye.

From this interesting review, I learnt that in West Africa, alone, there have been three great empires with several smaller and less important reigns.

And now, one sees why the name Ghana has been chosen for the newly free and independent member of our growing commonwealth. The first great empire and kingdom in West Africa was about 200 A.D. to 1076. It was the Ghana empire and was powerful and wealthy when England was being conquered by William the Norman. Then came the Mali empire 1230-1488 and lastly the Songhai empire 1488-1591. The Almoravid or the Benue empire, and the Almohade empire each lasted a century. These stretched from the West Coast of Africa to the shores of Spain.

Ghana began as a kingdom, and reached its peak in the 10th century, when gold dust was traded with the outside world for copper, salt, cloth, and brocades. Twin townships ruled Ghana, one Moslem, one Pagan, based on ancestor and spirit cult. The ruler was a pagan and his city was one of the greatest and most populous of the world. His palace was adorned with pictures, sculptures, and had glass windows while his people wore wool, silk, velvet and cotton.

Wealth brought the envy of neighboring tribes and in 1076 a militant Moslem, Abu Bekr, sacked Ghana, and several tribes began a trek of 1,000 miles southwards to the site of the present Ghana. Here, a different location, dense forests, insects fly and other pests forbade the use of cattle and horses, so the plow had to give way to the axe and the hoe.

The Mali empire, 1230-1488, was founded by an immensely powerful personality, Sundiata, who, among other things encouraged the growth of cotton and ruled wisely and well. In 1307 great glory came with the accession of Mansa Musa, a devout Moslem. Here is a sketch of his great pilgrimage to Mecca, almost inconceivable and could perhaps be best portrayed by a Cecil De Mille at Hollywood.

Mansa's caravan consisted of 60,000 men with 12,000 personal slaves dressed in Persian silks and brocades. Mansa Musa rode on horseback preceded by 500 slaves bearing gold staves, each weighing six pounds. A baggage train of eight camels each carried 300 lbs of gold dust. What a picture!

There were great universities in Musa's kingdom. Timbuktu alone had a population of 200,000.

SLAVE TRADE

The Dark ages of West Africa, brought about by the growth of the terrible slave trade, were actually started in 1441, when Henry the navigator, a Portuguese prince pre-

MAYNE

Mr. and Mrs. Don McDuldroch, of Brentwood, and their sons, Paul and Chris, spent a week-end recently at Bennett's Bay, camping on W. Wilks' waterfront property. While on Mayne they visited Mr. and Mrs. G. Maynard, who are friends of long standing.

Mrs. Pete Georgeson, of Victoria, and the Misses Campbell, of West Vancouver, are guests of John Aitken.

Mr. and Mrs. De Rousie and Douglas are spending a holiday in the United States.

Chas Murrell, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Kline, have returned to Mayne, after spending two weeks in Chilliwack. Mrs. Murrell left on Thursday for Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. Chatwin have been visiting Mrs. Worthington.

Miss Dill Gibbs is enjoying a holiday in Penticton.

Mrs. Ben Odberg has returned to her home after visiting her daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Kuzminski, of Seattle, have returned home after several days spent at Sleepy Hollow.

Mrs. T. Hunter is visiting her brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Wilks, at their home at Bennett's Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. George Slinn spent Saturday in Victoria.

Among those arriving on the Lady Rose on Friday to spend the week-end at their summer homes were Mrs. Cotton, of New Westminster, and N. McConnell of Vancouver, also Mrs. Phyllis Ramler, who is staying at Comfort Cottage. Returning to their home in West Vancouver last week were Mr. and Mrs. S. Buckenridge and their two children and two little guests, who have spent the last two weeks at Mr. Donaldson's cottage at Bennett's Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hanson and Mr. and Mrs. Newton have been recent house guests of Fred Hanson.

Mrs. Leslie Garrick and son, sent gold dust and ten Africans to the Pope. At first, under the guise of religion, both Protestant and Catholics carried on this abominable trade in human beings, "rescuing" them from paganism! The tribes were devastated, the country demoralized and it was only when the slave trade was abolished and Europeans ruled Africa that order was restored.

Away back in 1352 a visiting historian at the court of Musa wrote: "The negroes possess some admirable qualities. They are seldom unjust, and have a greater abhorrence of injustice than any other people."

"Justice and Freedom", the two words which appear on the splendid new coat of arms of Ghana, are therefore, a true part of their West African heritage.

DAMAGE BY HOOLIGANISM IS BARRIER AGAINST BUILDING

Request by the Pender Islands Farmers' Institute that the department of highways give consideration to the construction of a waiting shelter at Swartz Bay before the heavy winter rains, received reply last week.

Evan Jones, deputy minister, in a letter to the secretary of the institute, regretted that it had become necessary to discontinue the building of waiting rooms and shelters as they tended to become unsanitary, and the butt of destruction by hoodlums.

"I guess we'll just have to continue getting soaked by all the lovely hygienic rain", remarked a member of the institute sadly. Then she brightened. "Maybe the ferry company or the bus company will put up something." Another member suggested the putting up of an umbrella, and the matter was thus left for the time being.

Michael have been visiting Mrs. Garrick's mother, Mrs. Shopland, in Vancouver.

Mrs. Roy Chornoby, with her four children, has been visiting Mrs. T. Williams.

Mrs. Dave Milne is spending a few days in Victoria.

Mrs. Pete Georgeson, of Victoria, accompanied Misses Jean, Meg and Nan Campbell, of West Vancouver, to visit with her father, John Aitken.

Mr. and Mrs. George Maynard and granddaughter, Leigh, left on Monday via Cy Peck for Sidney to celebrate with Mrs. Maynard's brother and sister and their families on the occasion of the 79th birthday of Will Maynard.

EXPERIMENTAL FARM NOTES

WEEKLY REPORT OF NORTH SAANICH STATION

Dwarf apple trees continue to gain in popularity. There is no reason to believe that they will have economic value for commercial orchards. There is no doubt regarding their value for the home garden. It is always interesting to see these trees six or seven feet high and about the same distance in diameter just loaded with apples—a box or more but in off-years with somewhat less. All operations on trees of this size are very easily carried out. No ladder work is necessary, no high apples difficult to reach. Spraying can be done easily with small garden-type equipment.

While on the subject of spraying, this is a matter for consideration the bark on a small branch or on the trunk. The disease is spread in summer and fall during rainy periods. It is advisable to spray immediately with a fixed copper spray which can be purchased in brand forms under this designation or mix your own Bordeaux spray with copper sulphate and hydrated lime. Be sure that the tree trunks are well sprayed right to the ground. Cut out any dead twigs or branches.

We recently had an English visitor from Kent County, a Mr. Favell who grows about 100 acres of orchard mostly apples. He was most enthusiastic about the dwarf apple orchards he saw here and felt that these trees on the No. 9 dwarf Malling rootstock made better trees here than they do in England. Over and over again he exclaimed,

SIDNEY VISITOR

Miss Frances Saville, of North Pender Island, was a Sidney visitor on Thursday. A retired C.P.R. telegrapher, Miss Saville thoroughly enjoys life on Pender. Some of her poems, which appear periodically in The Review, have drawn warm commendation from readers.

"This is heaven—this is paradise," right now. Canker disease can kill The amount of color on Close apples was to him almost unbelievable.

Recently in conversation with one of the Victoria wholesalers I was told that local apples were selling better this year than usual. Is it that buyers are becoming aware that quality of well grown Vancouver Island apples is equal to the best from anywhere else? Today you will find California Gravensteins on the market—these wholesale at around $5.50 a box; our own local gravensteins will probably bring about $3.50 and have infinitely more quality and probably better appearance. If you don't grow your own buy the local product, but only if it is well graded.

SPRING CABBAGE

While August 1 is the traditional and perhaps the best date for sowing seed of spring cabbage, it's still not too late to make provision for this useful crop. The reason for this is that there is a high correlation between pointed heads and resistance to premature seedstalk production in the spring. If early round-headed varieties are grown rather than the recommended pointed heads the gardener will be doomed to disappointment, for while the young plants are relatively hardy and will usually overwinter safely, they quickly go to seed in the spring instead of producing a usable head.

The variety of this type most commonly grown in this area is Flower of Spring. Sultan's Earliest is another suitable variety which is offered by at least one B.C. seedsmen. Old Country seedsmen list many spring varieties of cabbage. One of the best of these under local conditions is Wheeler's Imperial. Early Jersey Wakefield, a pointed headed variety, which is commonly grown from early spring sowings, can be used, but is rather late to mature.

Seed sown now will provide plants ready to set out in their permanent quarters in September. Spacing

Betty Bone Reports On England Trip

Arrived at Sherbourne station on Monday, July 22, by train because of the bus strike. Received a wonderfully warm welcome from the Meager family.

This little village has one very old bakery, one shop, one church, and a pub. It is about three miles to the nearest shopping centre.

The Meager home, "Little Orchard" has a thatched roof. I have Betty Bone, member of the Tillamook Guide Company, is in England, attending the International Guide Camp which marks the 50th anniversary of the founding of the movement. This series is her own report on day-by-day activities in Britain.

A little room all to myself, and I'm really getting a good night's rest here.

Jane and Rosemary Meager are Brownies, and Mrs. Meager is a Guide captain, and so our conversation is mainly "Guidish".

The village Guide company held a special meeting, and I was really thrilled to be there. Gave Mrs. Meager a Canadian Guide Friendship pin, and the Guides each a Guide note book and a pencil. Glad I had brought along my song book, they really like our songs.

The days just seem to be running together, there is so much to do and see, I've met so many people who have been really wonderful to me.

Visited two castles this week, they are gigantic! Also visited a glove factory, and the owner presented me with a lovely pair of gloves. Been doing a lot of biking and shopping, and even went to the seaside. I do love this country and especially the people!

Two evenings, some of the village Guides have called around, and we had sing-songs out in the garden. They are determined to learn things, and so am I. I think the neighbors enjoyed our songs, too!

Rosemary is very keen about the "Pygmy Hunt", a Brownie game, which I played with Tillamook Brownies when Helen and I visited them before we left on this dreamy trip. It will be passed on to the village Brownies, and on and on.

The Guides took me to Poole, to see "Brownsea Island", where Scouting first began. Folks of Dorset are very proud of this fact, and rightly so!

My activities have varied greatly, I was invited to a wedding, and of course was pleased to go. Some parts were different, but, as a wedding always should be, very sacred and beautiful.

Time at Little Orchard, Bradford Abbas is running out. My host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Meager, have been just wonderful to me, and I've enjoyed every minute.

I've met lots of people, and feel sincerely, that I've gained some new friends.

I'm told the British Guides have been at Windsor Great Park since Friday, putting everything in order, so that we "overseas visitors" will not have any "donkey work" to do. Isn't that a marvelous spirit? And a good thing to remember, too.

P.S.—Love to everyone in Guiding—especially my dear Mrs. "K".

SLIPWAY IS REPAIRED

Repairs to the slipway at Hope Bay have been made by a federal works crew from New Westminster. The ferry Cy Peck resumed scheduled calls there on Saturday.

To Show Pigeons

The Pacific National Exhibition, Vancouver, announces that Arthur Lord, Galiano Island, has entered 16 classes in the pigeon section of the poultry show of the P.N.E., August 21 to September 2 inclusive.

Archers are requested to bring their own lunches.

Following the shoot a meeting will be held, when it is hoped that a Vancouver Island Archery Association will be formed.

Nanaimo Lights

Street lighting system in the southern portion of the City of Nanaimo is to be revamped. Plans for this $26,000 project have been announced by B.C. Power Commission district manager, Arnold McGillivray.

Mr. McGillivray said that existing street lighting system in the southern part of the Hub City will be converted from series to multiple, and additional units will be installed.

New Power Scheme

Application for a water license to develop 35,000 horsepower in a new hydro-electric development on the Kokish River has been put before the Comptroller of Water Rights A. F. Paget, by the B.C. Power Commission.

The Kokish River is on Vancouver Island, 86 miles north of Campbell River.

Data which accompanied the application proposes a scheme of development comprising a dam about half a mile downstream from the confluence of the east branch of the Kokish; a conduit approximately 5 1/2 miles long, and a generating station about one mile from the point where the Kokish enters the sea at Beaver Cove.

Beaver Cove is about five miles southeast of Alert Bay. There are no road connections to other parts of Vancouver Island, and access is either by air or coastal steamship.

The scheme proposes to raise the level of Bonanza Lake, which now has an elevation of about 290 feet above sea level, and the smaller Ida Lake, which is about 20 feet lower. Total drainage area is approximately 110 square miles.

It is planned to interconnect the Kokish plant by means of an 86-mile single circuit wood pole 138,000-volt transmission line to John Hart development.

HE IS ONE OF THOUSANDS

SCOUTS FROM ALL COUNTRIES

Among many thousands of boys to attend the world Jamboree of Scouts in Birmingham, England is David Field, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. J. Field, Ganges. David writes home to his parents of his reaction to a notable holiday. Excerpts from his letters will be published, as they arrive, in The Review.

This is the first of his comments: After leaving Vancouver Airport at 10 a.m. we reached Edmonton at noon, where we picked up a number of Alberta Scouts. We had to take the North Atlantic Route as it was too foggy to take the scheduled Polar Route. We landed at Goose Bay to refuel and reached London Airport on Thursday at 5 p.m. On arrival we were immediately shipped off to our billets.

The next day our party visited the Royal Military Academy at Sandhurst. It was quite a place and we saw a collection of old uniforms, equipment, etc. The Indian Army room was very interesting, filled with curios, Ghurka knives, etc. There was a magnificent chandelier hanging from the ceiling.

On Saturday morning we went to Bagshot a short distance from our billet, and were shown through the park and the chaplains' training centre, also quite interesting. Later in the day we went to Windsor and were shown through the castle, it is very large. We were allowed to go anywhere we wished and were amazed at the size of the rooms and decorations. I managed to take some very good photographs of the Guards. On our return we were shown through some parts of Eton.

Wonderful Resort Sunday we went to Brighton. It certainly is a wonderful resort. We saw the Royal Pavilion which I thought very ugly. We did not go swimming as the water was far too cold. On Monday we went up to London. We saw Westminster Abbey, went through the Houses of Parliament, stopped for a while at Trafalgar Square and then moved on to witness the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace.

I like England very much, as most of us do, and only wish we had more time to spend in this beautiful country.

We leave by special train for Sutton Coldfield tonight and as soon as I have a spare minute I will write again.

Oh, yes, it is pretty terrific over here and it is hard to get used to try their best to run you down.

Appreciation

Appreciation of the services of Central Saanich police and volunteer fire department was expressed on Monday evening in a letter to the municipal council.

Ian Ross of Butchart Gardens, stated that the co-operation of the municipality had been excellent during the recent symphony concerts at the gardens.

Thomas Jefferson started the Democratic party in 1793 when he resigned from Washington's cabinet and formed his own political party.

HOW TO ATTRACT TOURISTS

AND HOW TO KEEP THEM HAPPY WHEN THEY ARE HERE

Number of proposals for gaining distinction are offered to Sidney district by Dr. G. H. Hoehn of San Gabriel, California. Dr. Hoehn was a medical practitioner in Sidney a number of years ago and still takes a keen interest in local affairs.

The doctor's suggestions are published here for the benefit of interested groups or individuals.

I believe that some time ago I saw an announcement in a Sidney paper whereby some Sidney organization was asking for suggestions to improve the town. I have visited many spots favored by tourists and whether it is Petticoat Lane in London, or San Francisco's Chinatown, or Los Angeles' Knott's Berry Farm, Oliver Street, or Disneyland, it usually seems that the largest crowds are congregated around watching somebody work such as a street artist, an old-fashioned village blacksmith, a glass blower, and so forth. Actually, it is not only these unusual occupations that attract people for at any construction job there are always "sidewalk superintendents". It seems we all like to watch the other fellow work. I think that in small concentrated areas like Sidney that it would be quite practical to take advantage of this natural instinct and get the people out of their cars and into the shops by offering to let them see Sidney's "Artisans at Work". This could be done by handbills and by signs and, if desired, it could be limited to merely an hour or two hours before ferry time each day.

CAKES

First, and simplest, you could feature the businesses that are carried on at present in Sidney. Some planning would have to be done, some signs would have to be put up to direct people to where they could go and from where they could stand and watch (and they should be left to stand and watch and not be provided with seats for they may stay too long in one spot) and the work would have to be planned so that something interesting would be done during the hour or two before each ferry. For instance, the bakery could arrange that someone would be decorating cakes or cupcakes, cookies, during this time, or perhaps making doughnuts or perhaps even some stage of bread making. I am sure they would have to put on an extra salesclerk to handle the orders of their products.

Rogers' Candy Shop could arrange so that someone would be making candy or dipping chocolates or doing something interesting during this period each day.

CABINET MAKERS

The cabinet-making crew at Mitchell and Anderson is always interesting to watch and again,

AND NO DEPRESSION CLAIMS
Legislators casting about for new sources of tax revenue seem to have overlooked a promising proposal once offered to England and the world by Jonathan Swift.

"I propose," said the satirical Swift, "that a tax be levied on female beauty."

"But could we make the women pay enough to make it worth while?" a listener inquired.

"Ah, yes," replied the wise Dean. "Let every woman be permitted to assess her own charms—then she'll be generous enough."

The name, United States of America, originated when it was written into the Declaration of Independence.

perhaps of such significance that they would have to be arranged so that the people could either come in or go out through the hardware store itself. And again, it might be arranged that they could make and sell little items, like bread-boards and knife holders, etc., made from their scrap kiln dried lumber.

The town photographer could reserve some of his developing or enlarging or mounting photographs for this time.

Sidney Cold Storage could sponsor a tour if there is no particular objection.

In the dry cleaners, a simple thing is watching the steam press. It is always interesting, and of itself, of course, is no earth-shaking event, but combined with the other items on the tour would add up to an experience that will give you word-of-mouth advertising all over the country.

INTERESTING

And last, but not least, of the things that I can recall watching, is the various activities in The Review office. It is always an interesting experience. Perhaps you couldn't benefit from it directly for you would only be selling goodwill, but perhaps you too could start printing a few issues of each weekly paper with a blank section on the front page where the visitor, for a dollar bill, could have his name inserted over a news article mentioning that he had won the fishing derby, or was caught for speeding or some other fictitious event.

The second stage of this would make even more planning than the first and would mean bringing artisans in from the surrounding district to work in different stores in Sidney. Arrangements would have to be made whereby a small corner could be set up and a store would gain business from the visitors coming in, and the demonstrator would sell his own wares as well. Of course, there may be many other crafts than the few that I recall but an example that I would like to mention:

Peter, the tinker, who used to sit and hammer out hand beaten copperware at his home on Marshal Road.

Mrs. George Shepherd, who used to make beautiful Indian sweaters and my children would always watch with great interest when she would card the wool, or spin yarn on a bobbin, or knit the sweaters themselves.

Mr. Elvedahl, and others, who used to turn out scented bowls and lamps and book-ends, using various native woods and often driftwood.

Rebecca, on Madrona Drive, who had a pottery wheel and used to make large vases and decorate them.

A veteran who had learned to make jewelry out of silver wire while in D.V.A. hospital.

Mr. Pederson, who used to make model engines and other curios.

One artist whose work I often admired but whom we never met, who used to make pictures with wood inlays.

There were painters too numerous to mention and other people who were skilled in making flowerers, lace doilies, ceramics. If the Chamber of Commerce were to get behind something like this and arrange for little stands to be set up in different stores and schedules set up for them, many of these artisans would work only during the interval before ferry time.

There might be some, of course, who would work there full time, some, of course, who might do other employment in the store during the rest of the day.

I realize this would take a lot of co-operation and a lot of community spirit but I think that Sidney has everything it needs to carry this out. It has its business district closer together so that the people could cover the whole area on foot; it has the ferry line up waiting, and it has the businessmen who are anxious to increase their business. As this was developed, people would start to come early on purpose and visit and shop in Sidney.

I would not be surprised if not a few island residents would make the trip to watch Sidney's "Artisans at Work". Naturally, for this to be successful it helps if the artisans can carry on an interesting line of chatter while they work. Fortunately, most of these people are proud of their handiwork and are usually quite at ease in meeting strangers and talking to them.

I often meet people who have travelled all around the world and the things they talk about most are the chef they saw working in Paris, or the little old-fashioned cobbler shop (and Sidney has a cobbler, too, I guess) that they visited in Austria or the silversmith in Rome, and with a bit of effort, Sidney could show them all these things right there on Vancouver Island.

Wallace Drive Is Problem

In Numbering Plan for District

Only problem facing Central Saanich on a road numbering program would be Wallace Drive, stated Brahm Wiesman at Central Saanich council meeting on Monday evening.

Director of the Capital Region Planning Board, Mr. Wiesman explained that Wallace Drive ran both north-south and east-west through the municipality. He recommended that part of the drive be renamed, suggesting that the portion at the extreme south or north of Stellys be given a new name.

Mr. Wiesman presented his conclusions on an investigation of house numbering when he brought a house numbering chart complete with instructions on the manner in which the task will be undertaken if the council wishes to follow his recommendations.

The numbering project calls for the north-south numbering of houses to commence at 6200 at the south boundary of the municipality to about 9000 at the north end. East-west, the numbers will rise from zero on the west, towards the east.

The program is planned in preparation for the day when dial phones are installed on the Peninsula by the B.C. Telephone Co. and fire calls will be sent by radio. House numbers will then be essential for the purpose of identification. The scheme has also received the approval of the post office authorities.

HIGH FIGURES

Members of the public present at the council meeting expressed regret that the numbers will reach high figures at the north end and it was suggested that the highways be suitably marked to permit of starting again at zero at the south boundary of the municipality. This would necessitate an entire change in the name of the highway or the appellation, Patricia Bay Highway North, pointed out Mr. Wiesman.

The municipal council and the fire chiefs have already signified tacit approval of the project and it will be discussed further.

Mr. Wiesman, in closing, noted that some municipalities had provided numerals for the benefit of residents. As these had to be affixed by every resident it was else-where felt that it could as readily be a charge to taxes and residents would obtain a reduction in the individual cost of the numbers.

Man Turns Cook

STEAK SANDWICHES

With the "do-it-yourself" technique so firmly established in most homes, more and more men are taking to the kitchen to prepare their own favorite foods. If the man in the house is slow to fall in step, it might be a good idea to encourage him to prepare simple, down-to-earth dishes. Probably nothing fits this description better than broiled steaks garnished with onion rings and scarlet tomato slices. The steak is given a most effective dressing of mustard and simple seasonings for added appetite appeal. If preferred, cube steaks could replace the steaks called for in this recipe.

Open Face French Steak Sandwiches

Yield: 5 or 6 servings.
1½ pounds beef steak, cut about ¾-inch thick
Bottle prepared mustard
Salt
Pepper
Monosodium glutamate, optional
1 loaf French bread
(or heat 5 or 6 hamburger buns or use hot toast)
Soft butter or margarine
Sliced tomatoes
Onion rings
Trim steak and cut into pieces. Spread each side of steak with a little prepared mustard and sprinkle with salt, pepper and monosodium glutamate, if being used.
Heat French bread (or hamburger buns or make toast, if being used). Broil or pan-broil steaks, turning once, until cooked to desired degree.

ich and the circumstances invited a unified approach.

Councillor Warren's concluding remarks concerned the need for water.

"Naturally, any method of obtaining water for the municipality will be costly," he said, "but on the other hand, selling water to the public is always a good-paying proposition. Water is becoming more and more a necessity to the residents of Central Saanich."

The council endorsed his report, approved the extension of the committee and expressed appreciation of the work of the two committee members.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

Comments on the question of water arose when the council heard the report of Brahm Wiesman, Capital Region Planning Board director, on subdivisions.

Had the question been properly approached 20 or more years ago, there would be no water problem today, observed V. E. Virgin. A large section of Central Saanich would have been urban by this time, he added. It was the charge of water levies against frontages which killed it at that time, he recalled.

Mr. Wiesman noted that Saanich had recently floated a loan of $100,000 to finance the construc-

HE URGES USE OF ASPHALT

Investigation of the use of asphalt on municipal roads in place of the currently employed bunker oil was urged successfully on Monday evening by Central Saanich Councillor Harry Peard.

The council supported his plea for an enquiry into the relative values and costs, although not sanguine of the prospects of asphalt treatment.

The recommendation elicited the information that the most recent supply of road oil had been unsuccessful. It was impregnated with diesel oil, councillors were informed and applications had resulted in soft, spongy surfaces. The diesel oil breaks down the bunker oil and it loses its binding characteristics. Saanich has experienced the same problem, councillors were told.

BIG ATTENDANCE AT ANNUAL GALA DAY AT GALIANO ISLE

Large attendance of visitors featured Galiano Festival on Saturday, when ferry vessels and cruisers brought in holidaymakers to join in the island's annual gala day.

The weather was unexpectedly kind and visitors basked in brilliant sunshine throughout the greater part of the event.

Feature offering of the occasion, a painting by Galiano and California artist Irving Sinclair, was won by a newcomer to the island, P. Newton.

Other prize-winners during the day included Miss Stella McLaren, clock radio; Jimmy Karr, North Galiano, flash camera; Miss Sheila Lorenz and T. Beecham, tickets on Lady Rose.

The log sawing contest was won in the 7½ h.p. class by Vic Carolan and in the five horsepower section by A. Steward, both of Galiano.

Mrs. Betty Johnson, of Saskatchewan, won the ladies' nail driving contest, while Mrs. Duncenier, of Vancouver, was runner-up.

Attendance and enjoyment justified the day in the eyes of both sponsors and visitors.
